

Sadlier Decode & Discover Series

Knowledge-Rich Decodables that Build Readers and Thinkers

Sadlier Decode & Discover Series™ is our growing series of Grades K-6 fiction and nonfiction decodable texts that integrates foundational literacy skills with meaningful knowledge building, all while supporting students as they learn to read, and read to learn.

Developed with leading experts and grounded in the Science of Reading, these engaging texts accelerate decoding, fluency, vocabulary, and comprehension across grade levels.

Why You'll Love the Sadlier Decode & Discover Series

Science-of-Reading Aligned

Research-based routines reinforce explicit, systematic phonics instruction.

Knowledge Building in Every Text

Rich science and social studies topics strengthen background knowledge and vocabulary.

Engaging Fiction & Nonfiction

Narratives, informational text, poetry, and Reader's Theatre keep students motivated.

Flexible for Instruction

Use for small group, intervention, independent practice, or supplemental instruction.

Reader's Theater

Steve, can you see the bees?

Yes, I see the bees. They have a hive in the big tree.

I hope I don't scream.

Bees don't want to sting you. If one lands on your sleeve, just stay still and it'll leave.

I feel like I would scream if a bee was on my sleeve.

Bees help plants to grow. No need to scream.

Yes, and bees make a sweet treat that we can eat.

Bees help us, too. I like my tea with honey.

Build Knowledge

"Goldilocks and the Three Bears" is a classic fairy tale that has been told for over 100 years. The original, or first, version was written in 1837 by Robert Southey. It teaches important lessons—respect other people's belongings, or things they own, and never trespass, or go into a home or yard without first asking permission.

Build Oral Language

Use the Define/Example/Ask routine to review the word respect.

Respect means being kind, listening, and treating others the way you want to be treated. It also means taking care of things and using good manners.

Saying "please" and "thank you" is one way to show respect.

How do you respect the bear family? Discuss your answer with your partner.

How do you show respect to someone. What did you do with your partner?

Comprehension

Where? Point to the number word.

When she woke up? Read the question. (Text Evidence)

Why? Never returned to the bears' home.
